How We Will Calculate Your Balance: We use a method called "average daily balance" (excluding new purchases)". An explanation of this method is provided in your account agreement.

Loss of Introductory APR: We may end the introductory APR if card becomes 60 or more days delinquent and/or exceeds credit limit, 13.98% APR will apply. Please refer to the APR for Purchases in the table above.

Billing Rights: Information on your rights to dispute transactions and how to exercise those rights is provided in your account agreement. The information about the cost of the card described in this application was printed January 2018 and is accurate as of January 2018. To find out what may have changed please write to us at: PO Box 31, Macon, MS 39341.

How We Will Calculate Your Variable APRs: We calculate variable APRs by adding a margin to the highest U.S. Prime Rate published in the Money Rates section of The Wall Street Journal two business days (not weekends or federal holidays) before the closing date shown on your billing statement. The APR may increase or decrease each month if the Prime Rate changes. Any new rate will be applied as of the first day of your billing cycle during which the Prime Rate has changed. If the APR increases, you will pay a higher interest charge and may pay a higher minimum payment. The Prime Rate is simply a reference index and is not the lowest interest rate available. If The Wall Street Journal stops publishing the Prime Rate, we will select a similar reference rate.

Prime Rate: Variable APRs are based on the 4.5% Prime Rate as of Dec 28, 2017

For Purchase transactions, we add a Margin of 9.48% to the Prime Rate of 4.5.
